"SWAPPED" ON EVE OF WEDDING

Miss Cecilia E. Marcus, 16, daughter of Meyer Marcus, president of the Plymouth Coal Company, was to have married Louis Kaufman of New York next Sunday, but when her eyes lighted on Charles Presser at a "shower" her friends were giving her, she changed her mind and arranged for a substitute bridegroom. JEW ISSUE KEPT IN FORD SUIT

U. S. SECRETARY JARDINE NAMED AS MEMBER OF SAPIRO ORGANIZATION

Detroit, March 16 (I.N.S.).—Henry Ford's long crusade against American Jews was maintained as an issue today in the trial of the $1,000,000 suit brought against the auto king by Aaron Sapiro, Chicago attorney and so-called "wheat king."

Outlining his case to the jury of six men and six women, William H. Gallagher, chief counsel for Sapiro, declared the youthful "wheat king" was libelled when Ford made him the target of the anti-Jew crusade.

The Sapiro attorney described at length how articles in Ford's Dearborn Independent assailed American Jews, an alleged band of internationalists in the elopement, but, according to the father, he was under the impression the marriage ended her brooding. He explained she was highly nervous and lost her job for this reason.

She leaped into the river directly in front of the main buildings of Technology while students were passing nearby on their way to and from classes. A shout from them and from motorists who saw her jump brought O'Connor to the scene.

Without waiting for his motor-

OFFICER SAVES BRIDE AS SHE LEAPS IN CHARLES

Before the eyes of hundreds of Technology students, a Boston girl, a bride of ten days, attempting suicide in the Charles River, was rescued today by Motorcycle Officer James O'Connor of the Metropolitan District Police.

According to the police the girl is Gladys Olsen of Haskell street, Allston, although she insisted that her last name was Andre. She refused to tell the reason for her act.

At the bride's home her father declared that ten days ago she eloped with Louis Andre, who lives in another apartment in the same house as the Olsens. The girl had brooded over her love affair which culmi-

DRYS AGAIN WIN FIGHT; REFERENDUM IS LOST

After an uproarious debate during which Representative Francis X. Coyne of Boston challenged the members to "vote as you drink," the House of Representatives today voted against reconsidering the tie vote of yesterday that blocked a move for a dry law referendum in Massachusetts.

The vote today was 128 to 105 against reconsideration, with seven members not voting. The tie vote that defeated the bill yesterday was 118 to 118.

"Let every man who takes a drink vote for a referendum, and I predict that the measure will pass by an overwhelming majority," shouted Representative Coyne.

Spectators in the gallery broke into applause and Speaker John C. Hull, who cast the deciding vote against a referendum in the tie vote,

COLLEGE GIRL PLEADS GUILTY TO LONG LIST OF HUB STORE THEFTS

Baffling police by the cunning of her schemes, stealing thousands of dollars from department stores, Marie Nelson, a college graduate, well bred and cultured, ended a several months' career in crime when she pleaded guilty to twenty-five counts of larceny and forgery in Municipal Court today.

Outwitting store detectives and special police assigned to catch her, the young woman introduced to Boston department stores one of the most amazing systems of thievery ever encountered in this city.

When arraigned in court today she was held for the grand jury, but her physical and mental condition is such that she may never see the courtroom again.

For the past 20 days the young woman has starved. Doctors explain that her mental condition pre-

900 BUSINESS SCHOOL STUDENTS FLEE FIRE

Nine hundred students at the Burdett Business College, Washington and Boylston streets, were driven to the street today when fire broke out in a grease flue connected with the Georgian Cafeteria, on the first floor of the building.

The fire did not reach the quarters of the business college, but dense clouds of heavy, greasy smoke filled the building and led to the sounding of the school fire alarm.

The students and teachers, almost half of them girls, marched from the building in perfect order.

Washington and Boylston streets were crowded with traffic and when firemen arrived it was found necessary to rope off the streets.

The fire was confined to the grease flue which extends from the first floor to the roof of the building. After the flames had been extinguished, the class rooms were ventilated and the students returned.

REPORT $13 TAX LIMIT

A bill establishing a tax limit of $13 for Boston for the present fiscal year was reported in the House today by the Legislative committee on municipal finance. The vote of the committee was unanimous.

This tax limit refers to the amount the city of Boston can collect from taxpayers for its own uses. The remainder of the tax collected by the city has to be applied to metropolitan and county expenses.

The $13 rate is fifty cents less than Mayor Nichols demanded, $1 more than the real estate exchange wanted, and $1.60 above the figure set by the Boston Finance Commission as necessary.

The $13 figure, however, is $1 below the rate granted by the Legislature in 1926, when $14 per thousand was fixed.

CHINESE troops, near Wu Hu, fired bullets against the bridge of the American destroyer Preble, while that war boat was kindly escorting a Standard Oil craft on the Yangtse River.

The Preble answered with machine gun fire. Nobody hurt, except possibly a few Chinese.

IT COULD not be helped, and there may be more trouble like that and more serious. Too bad it CAN'T be helped.

The Yangtse is a Chinese river. We should be much annoyed if a Chinese warship were escorting a Chinese oilship, against our will, up the Hudson or inside the Golden Gate.

vents her from retaining food. Whether she eats willingly or food is forced upon her the result is the same. Doctors diagnose it as a form of hysteria. Her condition was described as pitiful both by police and physicians.

Mystery surrounds her connections, but police are continuing their investigation. It is known that she comes of a wealthy and exclusive family. When arrested she had been living at an exclusive Commonwealth avenue hotel.

The scheme by which she defrauded the department stores was finally uncovered after months of work by Special Officer Coleman Morrison and James Morrissey of the Stores Protective Association.

Police say the woman would first pick out some wealthy customer from one of the department stores. Then she would go to the postoffice, preferably in the suburbs, and ask that all mail addressed to her be held in general delivery, giving as her excuse that there were certain difficulties at home.

She would collect the mail, receive the bills from the department store and go there to pay the bill with a worthless check. With the receipted bill her credit would be good for any number of purchases and in many cases she was able to cash checks, all worthless, on the strength of paying the account.

Customers began to complain. The investigation started, but even while the investigation was in full blast the clever stealing continued.

She was finally caught and after talking to her police kept her in the psychopathic for observation.

LABOR WINS IN 48-HR. FIGHT ON HILL

Organized labor scored a victory at the State House today in effort to prevent a partial repeal of the 48-hour law in Massachusetts.

The Labor and Industries Committee voted to report "leave to withdraw" on the measure filed by the Arkwright Club, an organization of textile manufacturers, asking repeal of the law as it affected the hours of labor of women in cotton mills.

Under the bill women would be allowed to work 54 hours a week, provided the average for the year was not in excess of 48 hours a week.

WOONSOCKET SOCIETY STANDS WITH BISHOP

Woonsocket, R. I., March 16 (A.P.)—Council No. 2, the largest subdivision of the L'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique, took a position diametrically opposed to that adopted by councils of the society in Fall River, Worcester and Fitchburg, Mass., last week, when it adopted a resolution approving of the stand taken by supreme officers of the society in the controversy between a group of Franco-Americans in Rhode Island and the Roman Catholic bishop of the Rhode Island diocese.

The resolution says the council members declare themselves subservient to the church of Rhode Island bishops and priests who direct the Franco-American parishes and protests against the interference of the president of L'Association Canado-Americaine in the affairs L'Union St. Jean Baptiste.

COOLIDGE KIN 'FIRED' WHOLE ORCHESTRA

Plymouth, Vt., March 16.—The famous "Coolidge Orchestra," curiously linked with the President by claims of relationship, school acquaintanceship and even tenancy of Coolidge-owned property, is planning a comeback after its smash-up by internal strife.

But Uncle John Wilder, the President's uncle and who was "fired" by the other players, refuses their proposed second assault on vaudeville dom.

"Uncle John" says he wasn't fired —he fired the orchestra. He charges that each and all of the others were jealous of his popularity on the first successful tour, and he frankly prophesies ignominious failure if a second tour is essayed without him.

At the age of eighty-one he's planning a new troupe of his own for competition with his younger former comrades. He said:

"Fired me from the Coolidge Home Town Orchestra? Not by a darn sight. I fired them as hard, and so far they ain't a-comin' back.

"I'm the drawing card and they know it, and that's what ails them. Why, they were lucky to be with me at all.

"That's all bosh when they say I couldn't start it out cold nights. They never said anything about it publicly like that in vaudeville, for they knew them subways in New York made it hard for me, with my sore knees, but there ain't no subways up here, and I can get about as good as the rest of them.

"I did refuse to go with them once, to Rutland, when I had a bad cold. But that was the only time.

"Things came to a head on that Fair Haven engagement two weeks ago. I had my best clothes out on the bed and was going to change into them when they told me there was not room for me in the stage. They had filled it with three or four women, that's why they didn't want me.

"They're jealous because I had all the attention focussed on me during our trip. If they'd had some pictures taken of themselves, too, or rode in the cars with the mayors and other big officials where we visited, they'd feel better.

Negroes in Run on P. O. Bank; Hear U.S. Is Going "Broke"!

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—A long line of negroes staged a steady run on the United States postoffice here for heavy withdrawals from the postal savings department today following reports circulated through the negro sections that "the government was going broke."

A half-dozen negro ministers, together with welfare workers, exhorted the depositors to keep their funds intact, but their admonitions were in vain.

At the height of the run a whitehaired preacher, after imploring a member of his congregation to keep his funds with the government, was sufficiently convinced that "Uncle Sam was losing all his money," abruptly ended his futile pleadings and took his place in line to withdraw his own savings.

TAX LIMIT OF $13 FOR HUB REPORTED

ole during the hearings on the bill that $13.50 was the "smallest amount on which the city services can be efficiently maintained" was met with a remark by one committee member today to the effect that a $13 rate would have given the city all it wanted.

"No curtailment of work out in employes or disarrangement of plans made by the city will be necessary under the $13 limit we have recommended," this member said. "In fact, it is more than enough to meet all requirements."

Commenting on the act of the committee, Mayor Nichols said:

"The decision of the committee emphatically favors the case of the city as compared with the critics of the city, although the reduction of 50 cents means a further cut in the services to be rendered through the budget to the extent of almost $1,-500,000, and I had already cut the budget nearly $2,000,000 before asking for the tax limit of $13.50.

"Naturally, I am disappointed that we have not received the additional 50 cents.

"In submitting the budget to the Legislature I had already cut it so closely that I cannot see at this time how another million can be cut without the sacrifice of some very essential municipal services."

rapped vigorously for order and threatened to clear the onlookers out of the gallery seats.

DISORDER THREATENED.

The adverse vote of today means that there will be no referendum on the liquor question in this State at the next election.

The debate was the hottest in years and disorder threatened time after time as speakers on both sides of the question caustically "rapped" their opponents.

Representative James J. Twohig of South Boston opened the debate by moving for reconsideration, Feeling that was already running high, as indicated by informal discussion at the State House, immediately broke into turmoil.

"If we would have prohibition-I say it would be a blessing, but this thing we are going through is sending America to hell," declared Twohig.

"Conditions are terrible. It is the same here as in other states. I am told that dozens of police chiefs are being tried for corruption and bribery.

"The people want definite action on this question, the drys as well as the wets. The House of Representatives must give the people a chance to register their opinions."

Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, a clergyman, said:

"It seems strange that the cry against submitting this matter to the people was not raised when the daylight saving law and other matters were being put through," he declared.

"A referendum would mean nothing," said Representative Joseph Larson of Everett, speaking against reconsideration. "It would be nothing but legislative deception."

Wesley E. Hale, representative from Springfield, urged that the people of the Commonwealth should not be "unsettled" by a referendum on the liquor question.

TO NAB DOCTOR IN DEATHS OF 5 WOMEN

Lewiston, Me., March 16.—A prominent Lewiston physician is to be arrested today, according to Androscoggin County authorities, on charge of causing the deaths of at least five Maine women.

The whole section is in turmoil over the revelations unearthed in the probe into the death of pretty Nellie Seaton, Richvitle girl, who died, in the opinion of the investigating medical authorities, as the result of an illegal surgical operation.

Many esteemed and respected women of the district are fearful today of what the physician may be forced to reveal if he is subjected to a police grilling, which is apparently the intention of the authorities today.

How much the Seaton girl told before she died is kept secret by the men who heard the girl's story, but Sheriff King F. Graham said: "We are satisfied that the girl died last Sunday as the result of an operation performed by a Lewiston physician."

Other investigators admit that this same physician would be questioned regarding the deaths of four other women.

Assistant County Attorney F. A. Burns conducted the investigation into the girl's death, and today he put in touch with the authorities of Androscoggin County preparatory to arresting the suspected physician.

GIRL SWITCHES LOVE AT LAST MOMENT

"Change of mind is a man's prerogative—
But a woman's necessity"

In the midst of a pre-nuptial "shower," almost on the eve of her marriage to a New York man, Miss Cecilia E. Marcus of Brockton switched her affections to one of the guests and will marry him instead.

Her new fiance is Charles Presser of Mattapan, a young Boston attorney.

The bride-to-be is sixteen years old and the daughter of Meyer Marcus, president of the Plymouth Coal Company of Brockton.

Friends invited to the wedding next Sunday night of Miss Marcus and Louis Kaufman, New York contractor, will now instead attend the wedding of the girl and Presser on the same evening at Scenic Auditorium, Berkeley street.

When the Brockton miss returned her marriage license to the city clerk there and followed it up by applying for a new license to wed the other man, the story of the switched love leaked out. She readily told of it.

"My friends were giving Mr. Kaufman and me a shower in Grace Hall, Brockton, when I met Mr. Presser among the guests," she said. "He had long been a friend of the family's but suddenly the feeling came over me that I loved him more than I could ever love the other man.

LAWRENCE LAD LACKS NERVE IN END; CAUGHT

New York, March 16 (I.N.S.).—Broke and anxious to reach the bedside of his dying father in Lawrence, Mass., Leo Marsafa, nineteen-year-old high school student, today chose crime and lost because he lacked the nerve to be a bandit.

Young Marsafa entered the delicatessen store of Tamor Silvery in Brooklyn, satisfied that he would be able to make a purchase and then attack Silvery a terrific blow over the head with the butt of a revolver.

Panic-stricken as his victim slumped to the floor, Marsafa fled to the street, throwing the revolver to the pavement. He was seen by a passing letter carrier, who summoned Policeman William J. Feeney.

As the youth jumped on a passing truck Feeney commandeered a taxicab and caught him after a chase of four blocks.

Grief-stricken and hysterical young Marsafa readily confessed the crime. He said he had come recently from Lawrence to live with an uncle, Manuel Marsafa.

He had been unable to find work and yesterday received a letter from his sister, urging him to come home as his father lay at the point of death in a hospital.

He was charged with felonious assault.

CROSS DIVORCE SUIT WON BY MRS. FOSTER

Benjamin F Foster, Boston ticket broker, took the count in Middlesex Probate Court today when Judge Charles N. Harris granted a divorce decree to his wife, Mrs. Margaret E. Foster of Somerville.

The decision in favor of the wife ends a battle that the broker and his wife have waged in the courts for months past.

Foster, in a cross-suit, accused his wife of unfaithfulness and with being a confirmed liquor addict. He accused her also of cruel and barbarous treatment.

The wife, on the other hand, accused her husband of extreme cruelty. On the stand Mrs. Foster swore that the broker punched her and once ordered her from her home.

Following the handing down of the decision in court today counsel for husband and wife reached an agreement whereby the broker will pay Mrs. Foster $1,000 and will thus be relieved of all alimony claims.

They were married in Boston on August 17, 1917, and lived in Boston and Somerville.

DENIES PHONE MEN'S 'LEAVE' DUE TO VOTES

Charles S. Pierce, vice-president of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, at a hearing today before the joint committee on rules of the Legislature, flatly denied that Representatives Thomas H. Carr and Maurice J. Tobin, both of Boston, had been forced to take leaves of absence as company employes because of their anti-telephone votes in the Legislature.

Pierce was arguing against the adoption of an order filed by Representative Edward J. Kelley of Worcester calling for a public rebuke for the company because the "grave impropriety."

"It was unfortunate but purely a coincidence," said Pierce, "that these two men had been notified of the rule of the company requiring employes, elected to the Legislature, to go on leave for the period of the session, after they had voted."

Of the five legislators who are connected with the General Court, he said, two had taken leave in January. A fifth member, who was identified as Representative William L. DuBois of West Stockbridge, Pierce said, was in a different class and could not be called an employe.

DuBois, it developed, has the local telephone exchange in his house, and as such is classed as a contractor.

The speaker assured the committee that both Carr and Tobin would be taken back at the end of the session in the event that there was work for them to do.

Under examination by Representative Martin Hays of Boston, Representative Kelley admitted the company could not be rebuked for cutting men off the payroll and severing connections as much as possible when they would have to act on company matters in their official capacity.

Pinned down, Kelley declared members should not be allowed to vote on matters in which they are tied up on. Speaker John C. Hull reminded Kelley that the rules already provided for such an emergency.

The Merchant of Venice ~ Shakespeare's Immortal Drama

"Never to rich a gem
Was set in worse than gold."

Portia gave her new husband, Bassanio, a ring that he promised never to part with. She bade him hasten to Venice to aid Antonio, who had been imprisoned for debt by Shylock. Nerissa likewise gave Gratiano a ring.

"I am delivered from his forfeitures,
Many that have at times made moan to me."

Bassanio reached Venice with funds to pay Shylock, but Antonio told him it was useless. The usurer demanded his pound of flesh, and would not take the money. The debtors' law was strict in Venice, and a bond was a bond.

"God made him, therefore let him pass for a man!"

Portia, coached by a kinsman who was an eminent counselor-at-law, determined to go to court to plead for Antonio. She disguised herself as a young doctor of laws, and Nerissa, her maid, dressed as her clerk.

"If to do were as easy as to know what were good to do, chapels had been churches."

While Portia and Nerissa, dressed as lawyer and law-clerk, sped to Venice in time for the trial, Antonio, in prison, despaired of his life, and the wicked Shylock gloated in triumph at the prospect of approaching vengeance.

RADIO SET TO BE AWARDED IN FILM TEST

The winner of this First Grand Award, who will have the privilege of inviting a friend to go along with him (or her) will visit Santiago, Cuba; Kingston, Jamaica; Puerto Cortez and Tela, Honduras; Puerto Barrios and Guatemala City, Guatemala, and Belize, British Honduras, before returning to New York.

He will sail from New York, with his traveling companion, early in May, not only free of all expense connected with his wonderful 25-day cruise, but with his expenses paid from Boston to New York and return.

There will be other prizes, of course and it is concerning one of these that the Test Editor desires to say a word or two today. This particular award will be a BROWNING-DRAKE

No competition of this character would be a complete success in our day without a radio set among its awards. What the Boston Evening American desired was to secure one of the best sets made and, at the same time, if possible, choose a quality set manufactured in New England.

The Browning-Drake is made at No. 253 Washington street, in the Brighton section of Boston, where in the "peak" season of the year more than 100 persons are employed. It originated in the expert minds of Glenn H. Browning, one of the evening instructors in radio at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Hugh H. Drake, an instructor in the Cruft radio laboratory at Harvard.

IN 8,000 HOMES.

Placed upon the market one year ago last September, the Browning-Drake has advanced to a proud position among the admittedly best of all radio sets. More than 8,000 already have found their way into homes the sort of which are satisfied with "nothing but the best."

The Browning-Drake is noted for its tone qualities and its extreme sensitivity. It excels notably in long distance reception. Its frequency transformer, which was developed to its present degree of efficiency in the laboratory at Harvard—"regenaformer," it is called—amplifies the radio signals after they have come in one on the antennae.

In the beginning, as was natural enough, the Browning-Drake found its principal market in its native New England, but week by week and month by month as its superiorities have been made manifest its popularity has heightened and broadened until today one of its best foreign markets is in far distant New Zealand.

Any expert will tell you of the value of the Browning-Drake radio set and if you are one of America's great army of radio fans you will find in what the "doctors" say a new incentive to join the Boston Evening American's Who's Who in the Movies Competition.

Picture No. 1 in the new test will be printed next Monday.

You will discover it to be a scene in a popular movie play.

WHAT movie play?

That will be one question you will be called upon to answer.

You will also discover that the face of ONE of the actors has been painted out, in whole or in part.

Who is the actor whose face is missing?

That will be another question before the house.

And that is ALL there will be to this entertaining competition!

"Name the play from which the scene is taken." "Name the player whose face is missing."

Nor will you be left entirely without clues. Every day, a list of motion-picture plays will be printed. In this list can be found the title of the picture shown on that day. Every day, in like manner, a list of well-known movie players will be printed. In THIS list can be found the name of the player whose face has been painted out of the day's picture.

As easy as that!

The Boston Evening American's new test, in other words, will be no more than a test of your knowledge of movie plays and movie players.

In addition to identifying plays and players, you will be asked to write a letter of not more than 200 words on your favorite movie play, explaining WHY it is your favorite.

Nothing heavy; nothing elaborate; a little heart-to-heart letter naming "Metropolis" as your favorite picture—if "Metropolis" SHOULD be your favorite—and telling WHY you like it above all others. (The name "Metropolis" is used here merely by example; YOU will name your own favorite play).

For two days we have been singing here the appeal of a Spring tour of the Caribbean Sea on board one of the Great White Fleet ships of the United Fruit Company. Such a tour will be awarded to the person who makes the BEST showing in the Who's Who in the Movies competition.

Another award will be the Browning-Drake set described above. Still other awards will be spoken of as we go along.

Be ready, then, for Test Picture No. 1. It will be printed, together with the rules and the complete list of awards, in next Monday's Boston Evening American.

It's not so easy to get a picture of Prince Carol and Mme. Lupescu, for whom he renounced a throne, but they were not quite quick enough to dodge the busy photographer who caught them coming out of the prefecture of police.

SAFE-CRACKERS GET $225 IN DORCHESTER

Safebreakers today forced an entrance into the office of the Unit System Laundry on Parkman street, Dorchester, rolled the office safe into a back room and then proceeded to leisurely rifle the strong box. Skeleton keys were used in entering the office, while the combination was broken off the safe with a sledge-hammer. The thieves secured $225 in cash.

EVACUATION DAY LEAVE GRANTED AT CITY HALL

Heads of city departments were today ordered by Mayor Nichols to grant leave of absence, without loss of pay, to all employes who participate in the Evacuation Day parade in South Boston, tomorrow, and all others who can be spared.

Two Harvard Halls Were Built From Lottery Funds

Funds obtained from lotteries made possible erection of two Harvard buildings, Stoughton and Holworthy halls, in Harvard Yard, according to the Harvard Crimson.

The Crimson prints a story by a student investigator who reveals through musty archives that, following the Revolutionary War, lotteries were regarded as a respectable means of raising funds for worthy objects.

In 1794, records disclose, the General Court issued a grant of lottery to Harvard, permitting the college to raise $40,000. Stoughton Hall was erected with funds derived from this lottery.

Later, in 1816, another lottery netted $39,000 for construction of Holworthy Hall.

BOY IS KILLED BY AUTO

While roller-skating eleven-year-old John Steele of No. 179 Morrison avenue, Somerville, was knocked down and killed today by an automobile operated by Augustus A. Parmenter of Whitfield road, Somerville.

Parmenter, who declared that the boy suddenly swerved into his path, ignoring the sounding of the automobile horn, was arrested on a charge of driving so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public.

He pleaded not guilty in District Court and was released in $1,000 for appearance March 23.

WIDOW GRIEVING OVER DEATH KILLS SELF

When police forced their way into the home of Mrs. Alice G. Haskell in Johnston avenue, Winthrop today, they found Mrs. Haskell sitting in a kitchen chair, dead, with gas pouring from all the cocks of the kitchen range.

On a table near her body was a note that explained the tragedy.

"I cannot live without you, Daddy Dear," was all the note contained, but its import was clear.

Three weeks ago Mrs. Haskell's husband, William C. Haskell, died after a brief illness. The couple were devoted to each other, and Mrs. Haskell, who was fifty, could not reconcile herself to the loss of her mate.

LAY WORCESTER DEATH MYSTERY TO CRASH

Worcester, March 16.—What police at first believed to have been a murder mystery with George N. Flagg, 35, weaver of Holden, as the victim, proved to be a case of accidental death, the medical examiner's investigation developed today.

The man was found with his skull fractured in Hadwen park. His blood stained overcoat and vest lay some distance away. The medical examiner was unable to find evidence of foul play. He said Flagg had evidently been struck by a truck or automobile. His wife and several children survive.

Death Penalty Flayed by Clarence Darrow

Outside of Prohibition Effects, Crime Now Normal in Amount in the U. S., He Declares.

MRS. CLARENCE DARROW

"Except for an excess of crime due to prohibition, crime is now normal in amount in the United States," declared Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago criminal lawyer, upon his arrival here today for a debate this evening in Symphony Hall.

Mrs. Darrow is with her famous husband and will be present tonight when he argues with President Clifton D. Gray of Bates College on the subject, "Is a Man a Machine?"

The man whose eloquence and skill saved Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb from the electric chair and who defended Scopes in the Tennessee evolution trial denounced capital punishment as a preventative of crime.

He believes that Leopold and Loeb are model prisoners in spite of stories about Leopold to the contrary.

Darrow mentioned that he is interested in the case of Jesse Pomeroy, who has been confined at Charlestown State Prison for fifty-one years on a life sentence for murder, and he may eventually make an effort to win him his freedom. He has no plans for any immediate action, he said.

Darrow on his arrival here was wearing the same baggy trousers, loose coat and generally careless attire that always characterizes his appearance and makes him an interesting figure in courtroom or on debating platform.

OLD SUPERSTITION.

"I cannot believe that capital punishment prevents crime; that's an old superstition that people hang on to," he said.

"Crime like everything else has a cause and the thing to do is to eliminate the cause. But first we must find the real cause. Nine-tenths of the crime in this world is caused by youth, poverty, ignorance, defective training and lack of occupations.

"One very fertile field for producing crime is the failure to teach children occupations. Children are not being trained to earn their livelihoods.

"I think for a time the World War had some effect in increasing crime. That happens after all wars, because soldiers get used to killing people, get used to holding human life too cheaply, and it doesn't mean anything for some of them to continue killing after their return to civil life.

ABOUT NORMAL.

"That has now worn off and conditions are about normal now, except for crime due to prohibition. As proof of this let me say that only 32 persons were convicted of murder in Chicago during a two-year period, out of 440 cases of death originally believed to have been murders.

"As for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and the stories that connect him with a plot to poison prison guards or otherwise effect the escape of himself and others from Joliet Prison, I, for my part, do not believe he is even guilty of disobeying the ordinary prison rules. I don't believe he is doing anything that can be complained of and I know him as well as anybody."

CONSTABLES TOOK RUM TO GET SALVAGE

Four Westport constables on trial in Federal court on the charge of smuggling 500 cases of alcohol ashore at Horseneck Beach from the derelict schooner, Dorothy Earle, in January last, expected to get 25 cents on the dollar for beaching the cargo, Charles H. Hitt, one of the defendants, told Judge John A. Peters and a jury today.

Hitt, together with Philip Sherman, Harry Sherman and Omer Brightman were indicted following a Federal raid on the Ocean House at Westport on Feb. 7 where the booze was seized.

HITT ADMITS HIS PART.

Carlton C. Lewis, proprietor of the Ocean House, and William R. Wood, local truckman, are on trial with the four constables on the charge of conspiracy, concealment and transportation of the liquor.

Hitt admitted he took charge of the beaching operations, paid some Westport youths for their help and took charge of the alcohol under lock and key at the Ocean House.

Hitt testified scores of Westport citizens arrived on the scene and he, in the capacity of town officer, put them to work salvaging the alcohol from the sea.

LOCKING FOR SALVAGE.

"What were you going to do with the alcohol?" Hitt was asked by his counsel. "I was going to put it in a safe place, call the clerk of court and try and get 25 cents on the dollar for salvage," Hitt replied.

According to Hitt, he told Dennis F. Driscoll, the Federal officer who put him under arrest, had several verbal talks at the Ocean House concerning the ownership of the alcohol.

"I told him it was mine because I seized it first," Hitt testified, "and I told Driscoll he could not arrest me for seizing the stuff as a town constable."

Hitt told the court he did not know Driscoll was a Federal officer when he arrived at the Ocean House.

MUSICIAN HURT IN FALL SPRINTING TO CONCERT

Sprinting across the car tracks on Huntington avenue near Gainsborough street to play in an orchestra at a Jordan Hall mass meeting today, George H. Leopold Not in Death Plot

Joliet, Ill., March 16 (I. N. S.).—Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., young "intellectual" murderer, today was exonerated by prison officials of complicity in an alleged plot to free 1,300 convicts by poisoning keepers.

SAY GEMS FOUND FROM ROBBERY OF HUB FIRM

The Boston firm of Curran, Myers & Carlton of No. 373 Washington street, which lost a salesman's trunk containing jewelry valued at $12,000 in a robbery at Manchester, N. H., is believed to be the owner of jewelry found in Pepperell.

The jewelry, picked up along the road by boys, is believed to be a part of the loot secured in the Manchester robbery and the police of two states, together with Pinkerton detectives, have joined in a search for the thieves.

Edgar W. Carlton, junior member of the Boston firm, went to Manchester, Monday, with the trunk containing the jewelry samples. He personally supervised the removal of the trunk to the Rice-Varick hotel, where the trunk was placed in a hallway. Thinking it safe, Carlton attended to some other business. An hour or two later he discovered the trunk had been stolen.

Police investigation discloses that a man carrying a chauffeur's license secured a "drive-yourself" coach in Manchester and disappeared with the car. It is believed that he took the trunk.

Today Carlton is in Pepperell for the purpose of identifying the jewelry and has found that the Pinkerton police of New England are looking for a "drive-yourself" car with a New Hampshire registration No. 13005.

MARSINO FIGHTS HIS RETURN TO BAY STATE

Atlanta, Ga., March 16 (A.P.).—Joseph Marsino of Chicago, who recently completed a sentence in the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary for violation of the national banking act, was arrested here today by Fulton County officers on request of Massachusetts authorities, who charged him with conspiracy to steal bonds.

Marsino told jail officials he would fight extradition to Massachusetts. Marsino was convicted at Worcester, Mass., on charges of misappropriating approximately $200,000 of the funds of the Warren First National Bank and sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

Two Massachusetts officers were in the party that met Marsino on his arrival. They have been here for two weeks waiting for him, it was said. Extradition papers were filed with Governor Clifford W. Walker.

VERMONT SHERIFF DEMANDS NEW TRIAL

Montpelier, Vt., March 16 (A.P.).—Wallace L. Fairbanks today filed a petition for a new trial and it is expected the arguments will take place March 31 when the Vermont Supreme Court has set the case for hearing. Fairbanks was convicted in court here of misconduct with Irma Stickley, a State ward. He was reelected as sheriff of Windsor County while the case was on trial last Fall.

The petitioner bases his petition on conspiracy and alleging that Minnie Rushford was paid money to testify that she told a "mess of lies" that immunity was promised Minnie if she testified for the State.

SOMERVILLE MAN HURT IN FALL FROM ROOF

Joseph McKeon, aged 28, a roofer, of Irvington road, Somerville, fell 25 feet from the roof of a two-story dwelling at No. 201 West Park street, Roxbury, today. He was taken to the City Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from a sprained back. He was held at the hospital for further observation.

CASTORIA

When Baby Complains.

There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

600 AT 'VICTORY DINNER' OVER HUB FLEET

Six hundred New England business men who are interested in the advancement of Boston and New England shipping, today attended a "Victory Dinner" at the Hotel Statler.

The victory celebrated was the allocation of the twelve ships of the American Republic Line to Boston by the U. S. Shipping Board.

One of the features of the luncheon was the presentation of a Chelsea ship's clock to Frank S. Davis, manager of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, who said the principal address was delivered by former Mayor James M. Curley. Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook brought greetings from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to the shipping men for their notable victory.

At the luncheon were representatives of most of New England's larger industries, all of whom are looking to foreign markets, particularly in Latin America, to provide an adequate outlet for New England goods.

The banking interests were largely represented, as were the woolen, leather and coffee industries. Among those at the speakers' table were: Collector of the Port W. W. Lufkin, George Hawley, Captain E. E. O'Donnell, C. E. Spencer, Jr., George D. Rodgers and Orra L. Stone.

tione all out and I did not know what to do.

"I finally went to see Mr. Prosser's sister, Ida, and she knew how to handle the situation. Charles had already told her that he loved me. Needless to say, he had told me thes ame thing, and when she heard how I felt about it she told me there was nothing to do but to write to Mr. Koufman right away.

"The rest seems like a dream. We have grown to love each other more and more every day I and I am too happy for words that it is Charles I am going to be married to Sunday night."

To each of Miss Marcus' marriage license applications was appended a note from her father saying that she had permission to wed. Because of her age this was necessary.

WANT TRAIN STOPS NEAR LAKE BOONE RESTORED

Summer residents and commuters from Lake Boone turned out before the State Department of Public Utilities today in an effort to have the Boston & Maine Railroad ordered to stop the 4:50 train out of Boston at Gleasondale and Ordway stations. The railroad recently discontinued the stops for the 4:50 local, forcing commuters and others to take the train leaving North Station at 5:07 p. m. and reaching their destinations around 6:30. Frederick T. Grant, representing the passenger department of the B. & M., stated that the stops were eliminated in order to make long-distance travel on the 4:50 train more attractive. Harvey A. Stevens of Brookline, Representative Henry T. G. Dyson of Hudson, Howard F. Gleason of Gleasondale and Willard P. Lombard were among the patrons who asked for the restoration of the old train service.

One Side of the Story

The coal man calls a suburbanite after supper. The suburbanite:

"You really think that hard coal prices will rise with a strike in the bituminous mines."

"In that case I suppose I ought to be ready for it."

"What do you mean when you say this shipment is better prepared and brighter looking?"

* * *

"I see! Well, the last we had was not too well screened and was rather dull colored."

* * *

"The square fraciure of this coal assures more carbon, burns better? I see!"

"Well, if this is really the best coal you've had in years, and you can give me service like that, you had better fill up the furnace and stove bins."

"Oh, no, I had just finished supper, and I'm glad you called. I don't really need the coal, but what I have '-it will' 's much insurance against next winter. Thanks. Good-night."

NO MEXICO WAR, SAYS KELLOGG

Washington, March 16 (I.N.S.).—Secretary of State Kellogg, back at his desk after a vacation in the South, today assumed an extremely optimistic attitude in discussing American-Mexican relations.

He said he could see no danger of a break or a war with Mexico. All the present troubles, he said, could be adjusted amicably through negotiations.

There have been no recent developments to endanger the relations between the two countries, he asserted.

Kellogg did take issue with President Calles of Mexico over the disputed question of the number of American oil companies which have accepted the new Mexican oil and land laws. Some time ago Kellogg

WELLESLEY TO RACE HARVARD? PICTURE IT!

A Harvard-Wellesley crew race over the half-mile course on the Charles River!

Picture it!

The banks of the historic stream, lined with cheering girls and Crimson undergraduates! The high-pitched voices of the Wellesley rooters clashing with the Harvard baritones! The frenzy of excitement when the Wellesley oarswomen shot into the lead! The delirium of joy when the Crimson shell coasted in three lengths behind!

Yes, picture it. You'll never see it done!

The only reason we pictured it at all is this. Yesterday, the co-eds of Oxford and Cambridge Universities raced over the half-mile course on the Thames.

The Oxford crew, averaging thirty-eight strokes to the minute, covered the course in 3:35, which time is only a few seconds over the best time of the Oxford men's crew.

We asked Miss Eleanor Clifton, crew coach at Wellesley, what she thought of the performance.

"Thirty-eight strokes a minute is pretty fast. We use thirty-two strokes to the minute. Even Harvard and Yale seldom go above thirty-four."

"How do you think the Wellesley crew would fare in a race with Harvard?"

"Oh, we wouldn't mind racing Harvard. But we wouldn't care to compete with Yale."

Now if the Wellesley authorities would only allow it, what a race it would be. Just picture it!

Ban on Publicity Boosts British Divorce Evil

LONDON, March 16 (A.P.).—The new law prohibiting publication of details of divorce actions is believed responsible for an increase in divorce cases.

The Law Times says: "At the beginning of the Hilary sittings in 1926 there were 452 undefended divorce cases entered in London and at the beginning of the present sittings the figure was 488.

"A further 282 have been entered during the past two months. We have little doubt that now, owing to the absence of publicity, the divorce court will be resorted to much more freely."

1,200 FILE OUT IN SCHOOL FIRE

Holyoke, March 16 (A.P.).—Twelve hundred pupils of the high school filed out of the building in good order today when fire was discovered in the rubbish chute.

While Principal Howard Conant was addressing the pupils at assembly he was informed of the fire and announced that a fire drill would take the place of the scheduled program. While the pupils marched out the blaze was put out with chemicals.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Forty Youths of Smart Set, Attired in Blue Robes and White Turbans, to Act as Ushers at the Fine Arts Ball on April 29

JUST PICTURE FORTY YOUNG MEN TOGGED OUT IN brilliant blue robes and spotless white turbans. They are to be marshals at the Fine Arts Ball on April 29, to see that wheels revolve ever so smoothly. And won't they be an immensely decorative and striking feature of this Ball of Balls? They will fit so perfectly into the atmosphere of a great ducal festivity of the 70's, which is the Copley Society's inspiration for their Spring celebration.

THE SOCIETY HAVING ARTISTS AND SCHOLARS BY THE SCORE in its membership, it's a foregone conclusion that the costumes will be richly elegant and perfectly executed. Just as it is safe to say that Horticultural Hall, scene of the dance, will lend its austere self most adaptably to glorification as a hall of a proud ducal castle in England. Also that whenever the Copley Society stages a Fine Arts Ball its the sort of occasion that marks a milestone in the social scheme. This affair will be nothing if not gorgeous.

ONLY SUCH TERMS AS MAGNIFICENT—RESPLENDENT—sumptuous and the like serve to dress appropriately an account of the Fine Arts Ball staged by the Society two years or so ago. And this season right from Holker Abbott, its leading spirit, through to the latest enrolled member, everyone is keenly alert to outdo even the high mark of former years. The ball will be a place of ducal splendor, and the costumes will be marvelous to behold. Altogether it will be the romantically beautiful scene the invitations promise as they go out about the first of April.

THE HONORARY COMMITTEE IS IMPOSING TO A DEGREE. HIS Excellency the Governor heads the list. Also on it are William T. Aldrich, Henry R. Shepley, Gino L. Pevers, H. Winthrop Peirce, Herbert C. Ripley, Edward Waldo Forbes, G. Harold Edgell, Cyrus E. Dallin, T. Jefferson Coolidge, William Emerson and Frank W. Benson; each one of the dozen is a big wig in the world of arts and culture. And for costumes the widest range is permitted, provided that nothing of the present is attempted. "Modern costumes of the hunt, uniforms and all historical and other costumes of any period but today," so reads the edict as set forth by the powers that be.

EVERY RAINBOW COLOR AND ALL THEIR TINTS AND TONES, as decreed "the thing" for Spring was paraded yesterday by fair maidens at Repertory Hall. If one is "brune" there were gorgeous yellows, oranges and flaunting rose shades for first choice. If one is the golden haired, blue-eyed beauty, then happily has Madame Fashion furnished a marvellous assortments of blues, Lido, Algerian, Cobalt, Turquoise, to say nothing of chic black and white. Beach suits and wraps in a riot of color that would put the most gorgeous Neapolitan sunset to shame were shown, suits and wraps on which Palm Beach and Biarritz have smiled approval, and, hence, certain of Summer popularity.

WHAT FASHION SHOW BUT HAS ITS BRIDE. MISS RACHAEL SMITH was simplicity itself in white satin and lace. There was none of the rich formality to the gown, but a lightness and delicacy of treatment in mellow ivory satin and beige lace. And by way of variety the modista dispensed entirely with the formal court train so beloved of brides. Miss Elizabeth Hubbard's trim black costume, dashingly set off by white, was essentially the mode for street wear. Miss Charlotte Kennedy wore one of the radiant beach robes, all peacock and sunset yellow tones. Mrs. Henry Lee Higginson, 2d, in kasha suit and snug chapeau, created the ensemble of Spring with fox scarf and boutonniere and smart pumps.

MRS. PIERPONT L. STACKPOLE'S VERY MATERIAL EXPRESsion of esteem for Lowthorpe School out in Groton is bringing forth much pleasant comment from Lowthorpe supporters. "Stackpole Hall" is her gift to the School and was opened with a pretty little party a week or so ago, with Mrs. Stackpole, Mrs. Stephen V. Darol and Mrs. Cyrus W. Merrell as patronesses. Lowthorpe enjoys a spirited backing from many Smart Set folk, attested to by a never failing interest aiding its efforts to create an endowment fund.

prove that it is the cause of all our woes, the causa causans, as learned men like Dr. Butler call it.

WHEN THE DEBATE ends we shall be just where we were; some believing that you can make men good by law, others that they must learn to be wise, stumbling, falling, finally learning, as a child learns to walk.

MEANWHILE, we have bootleg whiskey and the world's biggest crime wave. Also we have extraordinary prosperity, and the most amazing savings deposits and land booms.

It is for each to decide for himself, but deciding will make no difference. Prohibition is here and will stay until after Senator Borah loses interest in politics and Dr. Butler joins the earth alumni, in realms above.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS' committee to "stave off war" makes an announcement that should calm any savage breast.

In addition to making naval demonstrations against any nation that insists on fighting when the League happens to object, "aerial demonstrations can be used, in the future, within reasonable limits."

THIS MEANS, in plainer English, that the League of Nations will send flying machines roaring over the obstinate nation's big cities, sending down this notice, "We have with us, up here, an assortment of explosive bombs and poisonous gases that would interest you considerably, if we dropped them. Behave yourselves."

SUCH A DEMONSTRATION, if the League chose to direct it against this much disliked creditor nation, would interest us. We have not even big hiding places for our populations, much less arranged to protect them. We should have to imitate Crockett's Intelligent coon, which said, "Don't shoot, I'll come down."

ANY YOUNG MAN desiring to go West and grow up with the country has an opportunity in the opening this week of the Seattle Bond and Stock Exchange. It starts with only twenty-two members, compared with eleven hundred in New York's Exchange, and will take in a few more, one in three months at most.

Very able Northwestern business men are back of this exchange, which in days to come will compare with the New York institution, as the Pacific compares with the Atlantic.

AS NEW YORK on the big Atlantic exceeds in trade Venice of old on the little Mediterranean, so will the Western Coast one day, on the great Pacific, excell the cities on the small Atlantic.

Any rich man desiring an opening for an ambitious son-in-law should try to get him one of those Seattle stock exchange seats. Apply to Dietrich C. Schmitz, of the Seattle National Bank of Commerce.

THERE, in Seattle, is a chance now to lay the foundation of a fortune beyond the dreams of avarice, if your temperament can stand the wear and tear of stock exchange work and resist the temptation to gamble.

The successful stock exchange man "lets the customers gamble." He collects his little "one-eighth" and goes home to the wife and kiddies.

MLLE. TINA GHIRARDI and her brother arrive, bringing from Paris a new dance, "the Zambs." It comes from Portugal, where dancing and other things are done emotionally. Peasants have danced it for centuries before there were any colored slaves here "to teach the white folks how to shake their shoes."

MLLE. TINA will show New York, New York will show the rest of the U. S. A., and soon new steps will be learned by wheezy old gentlemen that ought to be thinking of their immortal souls and their inheritance tax.

We are docile sheep; so prepare to learn the rurrels, sabatero, cruceru, shora and other steps.

WALTER GOLDBERG, eighteen, admits that he shot and killed Anna Harris, a high school girl of sixteen—and weeps, which does no good to Anna Harris.

Her parents say it was murder; he says it was an accident.

Two pistols figure in the killing. You may say that in these reform, prohibition days, one youthful murder, more or less, makes little difference. But someone ought to be interested in the fact that a neurotic youth finds it easy to get "guns" and ammunition.

STANDARD OIL in the last three months has paid dividends of more than $55,000,000. That's at the rate of more than five per cent. on four billion dollars; so there is a four billion dollar concern right there.

If you wait a few years it will be a ten billion dollar concern. But, as you know, Mr. Rockefeller doesn't own all of it, or even half of it.

A GREAT DEAL of Standard Oil prosperity, by the way, has been achieved in a market of hard competition by intelligent newspaper advertising. It is to be hoped the able managers know that, and realize that it pays to talk directly to the people through daily newspaper advertising. This writer, by the way, hasn't one dollar's interest in any newspaper advertising, anywhere.

WOMEN BRAVE DESERT STORM IN NEW GOLD RUSH

Tonopah, Nev., March 16 (A.P.)—The land of gold at Wesp'ah held ever-increasing numbers in its spell today as novices and desert rats alike heard the news of the latest discovery at Barrel Springs, five miles to the south. BALMY SPELL IS HERE TO STAY

Pessimists who gloomily predict a storm or reaction to the current premature Summer temperatures will be disappointed in the official forecast of the local weatherman.

Nowher on his map today east of the Rockies were there any indications of a threatening disturbance to mar the New England sunshine and he promises an indefinite extension of the current pleasant weather.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Fair tonight and Thursday; not much change in temperature; gentle, variable winds, becoming moderate southerly.

ROYAL BABY CUTS TEETH ON QUEEN'S NECKLACE

London, March 15 (A.P.)—Princess Elizabeth, infant daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, is teething and has shown a penchant for exercising her gums on the necklaces of her royal grandmother, Queen Mary.

Although fully sympathizing with Elizabeth's needs, the Queen still has regard for her pearls and today, while visiting the Home Arts and Industries Exhibition, she bought a string of brightly colored beads "for the baby."

The Queen carefully designated the length of the string, remarking: "These beads are for the baby to bite. She will insist on trying to bite my necklaces."

Elizabeth is being cared for by her grandmother while her parents are on their Australian journey.

JEW ISSUE MAINTAINED IN FORD SUIT

tional Jews and lastly entered upon Sapiro as a member of a "Jewish ring."

The main items in the suit, said Gallagher, are whether these charges were true or false.

KAHN IS NAMED

The names of Otto Kahn, Abram D. Lasker and Julius Rosenwald were mentioned when Gallagher read from a Dearborn Independent article, this statement: "Otto Hirsch, Sapiro, Bloom, Lewis, Wolchansky, Hillquit, Kahn, Marcus—all working for the Bolshevist American future."

"This, of course, is its first use the truth, but it wasn't meant to be known as the truth," Gallagher continued. "It was even intended that the people be left thinking that the opposite was true."

Touching on a statement that the "American Jewish Joint Agriculture only financier was an unscrupulous Jew," Gallagher said:

"We will show that such men as Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, and Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, in President Coolidge's Cabinet, are identified with and members of the so-called Sapiro Co-operative Associations."

Court was late getting started, as the opening attorneys held a 15-minute conference with Judge Fred N. Raymond, before Assistant U. S. Attorney (D.) of Missouri, Ford's counsel, said the session was to outline a course of procedure.

DECIDE PROCEDURE

Under the plan agreed upon, Sapiro will prove that the charges in articles attacking him were published in the Dearborn Independent and that Ford was responsible for the publication.

Then he will seek to show the articles damaged his reputation and personal feelings to the extent of a million dollars.

Defense then will attempt to prove the articles were justified on the ground that they either were not libellous, or were true.

After that Sapiro will have a chance to prove the charges against him were untrue. The last word will then go to Ford and the case will go to the jury.

Gallagher was interrupted by Reed once when he declared "Ford had certain ideas respecting the Jewish race and certain individual Jews."

Reed objected, saying the plaintiff could not prove what were Ford's ideas. The court upheld the objection.

Declares Ford Paper's Attacks Were Suspended

Detroit, March 16 (A.P.)—Henry Ford and E. G. Buck, business manager of Ford's publication, the Dearborn Independent, were informed of the exact activities and purposes of the Aaron Sapiro cooperative marketing organizations, at the time they were printing alleged libelous articles in regard to them, Attorney William Henry Gallagher asserted in his opening statement in Federal Court today.

Sapiro, who is suing for $1,000,000 alleging defamation of character because of statements in the Independent, sent a committee to explain the matter to Ford said Gallagher, but he referred them to Mr. Black.

SAYS ATTACKS STOPPED

The latter found it very hard to say, said Gallagher, and for some time the series of articles attacking Sapiro and containing matter upholding the farmer were discontinued. They were resumed after a while, however, no reason being given, the attorney for Sapiro added.

Opening of today's session was delayed by a conference of Judge Fred M. Raymond, Senator James A. Reed, counsel for Ford, and William Henry Gallagher, attorney for Aaron Sapiro, plaintiff.

Judge Raymond told the jurors the delay in opening court was due to a conference which he hoped would save them, as well as the court, time in the future. It was understood the plaintiffs will shorten the procedure as much as possible in introduction of evidence.

FORD'S PRIVILEGE

Attorney Gallagher, in resuming his opening plea, said, as he had declared yesterday, that to attack cooperative marketing on the part of Ford was permissible.

But he went further than that, Gallagher said. "He said Mr. Sapiro was a member of a Jewish combine conspiring to gain control of agriculture."

"It was not only a national conspiracy, Mr. Ford charged," the attorney said, "but an international ring he ascribed Sapiro of belonging to.

He claimed that Sapiro dominated agriculture, not only for selfish motives, but also that he was the tool of the international conspiracy of Jews.

"Ford said that not only did Sapiro exploit the farmers to the benefit of the great international combination of Jews, but added a second Communism and Bolshevism over the United States.

"They conspired, Ford alleged, to go into the home, take the children there and instill into them the spirit of Red Russia."

REED CALLS TURN

Mr. Gallagher said the question for the jury to consider was: "Was there libel against Mr. Sapiro.

"Was Mr. Sapiro injured when it was said he was a member of an international conspiracy to spread communism and exploit farmers?

"If it was true, then there was no libel."

Senator Reed objected here and Judge Raymond asked Mr. Gallagher to confine himself to what the plaintiff intends to prove.

The judge explained to the jury attacks may be made on races, religions, and classes without fear of libel, but it was when individuals were singled out that the attackers were open to punishment.

The first article alleged to be libelous was published April 3, 1924," said Mr. Gallagher, "and was entitled 'Monopoly Traps Organized Under Guise.'

"A band of Jews—bankers, lawyers, advertising agencies, fruit peckers, produce buyers, professional office managers and bookkeeping experts—is on the back of the American farmer," said the article.

"COAST TO COAST"

"Working occasionally in the open, usually behind a screen of well-paid gentile 'fronts,' this organization has developed with such amazing rapidity within the past five years that its operations today extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the interior of Canada to the Mexican border. If it is allowed to continue for another five years not a grain grower, not a vegetable producer, not an orchardist, save one class in one limited area, would be able to escape tribute to it.

"Born in the fertile, fortune-seeking brain of a young Jew on the Pacific Coast, a little more than five years ago, and nurtured by a Jewish official who had the ear of one of the State governments by which he was employed, the idea has turned millions away from the pockets of the men who till the soil and into the hands of Jews and their followers."

Speaking of dissensions in co-operative marketing organizations, Mr. Gallagher said the article claimed there were always "members of the Jewish conspiracy" to take over the failing company, reorganize and realize large profits.

LOANS BY BANKERS

"Jewish bankers always stand ready to make the 'loans' to the needy farmers, the article says," Gallagher declared.

"Making these 'loans' to the farmers, the article claimed, enabled the 'ring' to gain control of large amounts of land when farmers found it impossible to lift the debt," Gallagher continued.

He showed to the jury pictures, which he termed damaging to Sapiro, that appeared in the Dearborn Independent. He thumbed through the pages, reading captions and headlines.

Mr. Sapiro is legal adviser of sixty-four co-operative organizations and knows nothing of the problem of the farmer," one article asserts," said Mr. Gallagher. "We will show he is one of the most able farm advisers in the country."

"The statement that this man is an autocrat and dictator is absolutely false.

"Other Jews said to be interested with this alleged conspiracy—Bernard Baruch, Julius Rosenwald, Otto Kahn, Eugene Meyer and Harris Weinstock—are mentioned generically as 'working for the farmer.'"

U. S. NOTABLES NAMED

"The article asked why all these men working for the benefit of the agriculture are not farmers themselves. We will show they were prominently acquainted with the agricultural situation.

"Not one Jew in 10,000 gentiles was allied with Mr. Sapiro in the co-operative organizations. Such men as former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois and Secretary of Agriculture Jardine stand squarely behind him in his activities."

Mr. Gallagher said Sapiro was employed only being absent much of the time from his office and apparently neglecting his duties in the co-operative organizations. At all times while absent in the interest of the associations his position was protected, declared the Sapiro attorney.

DENIES JEWISH LOANS

Mr. Gallagher explained the nature of the co-operative organization to give background.

"Never has any money borrowed by any of Sapiro's organizations been obtained at a Jewish bank, he declared in answer to the charge that Jews sought control of agriculture through loans.

Showing the jury a picture from the Independent, of a field of growing celery, he read from an article which he termed "false, scandalous, malicious and defamatory" as follows:

"Every stalk of celery shown in this corner of a large field pays direct tribute to Jewish dominion (meaning the alleged conspiracy) of the co-operative marketing system of the United States."

"We will show," said Gallagher, "that the claim that Mr. Sapiro chooses the managers and dictates the policy of the farmers' organization is absolutely false.

"They are appointed by the board of directors. He often recommends and advises with the directors, but he never appoints. The majority of the managers are Gentiles.

"A story was called on Mr. Ford to put before him the facts of the co-operative organization. He refused, however, but granted a conference in the office of F. D. Black, business manager of the Independent.

Denies Huge Losses

"Mr. Black met these men who laid the facts before him. The following week, the Independent stopped publication of articles for some time, but resumed them some weeks later.

"The idea of co-operative marketing organizations is not a Jewish idea if anything, it is American.

"There will be no difficulty showing this."

Gallagher later referred to a headline in the Independent: "Millions lost through Sapiro plan," and to a statement that the "American wheat farmers of the northwestern states" had lost $2,000,000 annually in 1921, 1922 and 1923 due to Sapiro and his cooperative plan.

"We will prove these statements false," said Gallagher.

Another statement he declared false read: "These statements are the simple truth of the success of the Northwest Wheat Growers Association, which Aaron Sapiro started in January, 1920, pocketed his fees, and left to its fate, as has left every co-operative marketing association which he has formed."

Circus Air of Ford Trial Moves Judge to Warn Crowd

Detroit, March 16 (A.P.)—Fear that the trial of the $1,000,000 Ford libel suit would be "turned into a circus" was expressed by Judge Fred M. Raymond, who ordered court attaches to keep order among visitors, the large corps of newspapermen and swarms of messenger boys. The confusion, said the judge, was distracting all the attention of the jury and counsel.

Excited visitors and reporters hurried to and from the small courtroom, reporters slid in and out to call up their papers, and the result, said the judge, was that the press, instead of the trial, held the centre of the stage.

CHAPTER XX.

It was Andy Jerrold who met Bobbie at the South Station.

She had a glimpse of him from the window of the car as her train pulled in. Andy, all alone on the platform, looking so sober that she never guessed how his heart had begun to pound at the sight of her.

She came straight into his arms and kissed him about the way she would have kissed an older brother if she had one. Calmly and without warmth.

She had been thinking of Gus MacCleod most of the way home, and suddenly she thought of him again as she kissed Andy Jerrold. She thought of the way Gus had kissed her that night in his white hillside house. Those kisses had meant something. They had left her thrilled and breathless—and even now she caught her breath a little at the memory of them.

"Good old Andy," she said, looking up at the man beside her. She hadn't realized that Andy was so good-looking. That clear, smooth brown skin, with a little scar near the mouth. And his eyes so keen and clear—Andy would make an awfully satisfactory husband for some nice girl, some time.

"Where are your bags?" he asked and she waved her hands helplessly. She hadn't noticed where the porter had put them when he lifted them from the train.

"A red cap must have taken them," she answered vaguely, looking around her at the hurrying people.

"Wait here for me," Andy said, and dashed away. In a couple of minutes he was back.

"It's all right. I found them and put them into my car. Come along." He led the way to where his car was parked outside of the station. Andy never had a car for a very long time—only until he could sell it. This one was dark blue with shining windows and gray velvet seats.

They got in and he tucked a rug around her knees. She leaned heavily against him as they started off through the cool fresh air. Somehow even there in the heart of the city it smelled of Autumn—of burning leaves and rain-soaked earth.

"How's Aunt Gertrude?" Bobbie asked as they drove on to Dedham. "better, I hope."

Andy did not say anything in answer for a minute, and she turned to look sharply at him. His face had become even more solemn than before, and the corners of his mouth were shadowed with fine-drawn lines.

He cleared his throat and said. "Well, you see—"

Then he stopped and waited for another half minute or so before he finally answered her.

"Well, you see it was this way, Bobs," he began again. He put his arm around her, drawing her close to him. "Your father and I didn't want to shock you, but your aunt—"

Then he stopped again. It seemed impossible for him to go on for a minute or two.

"At the time we sent the telegram she was dead," he got it out at last. "There was no use in telling you and so we decided to keep it from you. But she recovered her dog.—ADV.

Many Are Late With Tax Returns

Midnight, March 15, was the zero hour for mailing Federal income tax returns.

Federal employes were busy with the usual rush of late comers seeking advice on the preparation of their forms. However, many lost out, as the Federal office closed at 5 p. m., and had to make out their own tax returns as best they could.

Mrs. H. F. Chisholm, of 1610 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, recently lost a valuable dog, on learning the American and Advertiser Classified Department kept open until 11 p. m., she immediately inserted an ad in the Lost and Found Columns. In three days she had recovered her dog.—ADV.

MRS. CHAPLIN GETS A JOB

Needle Marks Jail Youth

3 MONTHS FOR YOUNG DOPE USER

"Needle marks" in the right leg of a 20-year-old youth were instrumental in his being found guilty in Municipal Court on a charge of possessing morphine.

A mere boy and because of his youthful appearance a strange character to be rubbing shoulders with unkempt drunks and shifty-eyed thieves, John McIntire created somewhat of a stir in the courtroom when he pleaded not guilty to the charge.

It was his first trip to court and all because he was taking "shots" of morphine, according to the police of Back Bay station.

John heard Special Officer J. J. Devine testify: "In consequence of a telephone call from the landlady Sergeant McNabb and I went to 8 Back Bay address and entered this defendant's room.

SITTING IN BED.

"He was sitting in bed and smoking a cigarette. On a chair near his bed we found this spoon and some cotton batting. We found an eye dropper on his bureau.

"We questioned the young fellow and he said that he had used drugs, but not for a period of three weeks. We sent the spoon and cotton batting to the State House, and the report of an analysis showed that they contained morphine."

Spectators, among them many young girls and policemen hardened to the events of a courtroom, focused their attention on the collegiate appearing boy when he took the witness stand to deny the story of the police.

"I am not a user of dope," he said. "I never used them. The only explanation I can give is that another boy occupied my room two nights before I was arrested."

SAYS POLICE MISTAKEN.

Officer Devine cross-examined the boy, asking: "Didn't you say when you were arrested that you had used drugs which you obtained in New York city?"

"No," he replied. "You must be mistaken."

"Didn't you admit when you were examined by the police physician that the marks on your legs were there as the result of taking drugs?"

"No," again was the reply.

Judge Bolster took a hand in the examination. He called Dr. Sandor, courthouse physician, to the stand. The physician testified that he examined the boy and that the marks on his leg were consistent with those which resulted from the use of a hypodermic needle as used by drug addicts.

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

Each day we shall publish a complete hand presented by Mr. Whitehead, together with a chart upon which the bidding and play may be noted.

Tomorrow we shall publish Mr. Whitehead's explanation of today's hand.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead.

SALIENT POINTS OF BIDDING.

South's original bid of Spades, and subsequent two rebids without bearing from partner, were justified by the number of probable tricks in hand with Spades as trumps, plus the honor count of 30. West, in bidding two Hearts, bid the full strength of his hand. North held no sound assist for Spades until after partner's second rebid. East held three justifiable assists for Hearts on the basis that if five Hearts could be made, the five opponents should be able to make four Spades; and the loss sustained, by not buying the hand at five Hearts would be amply compensated by the game saved. South doubled instead of bidding five Spades, correctly assuming the probabilities more in favor of defeating the opponents' contract than of making a contract of five Spades.

SALIENT POINTS OF PLAY.

Trick 1. West sees that he cannot ruff enough losing Spades and also exhaust the outstanding trumps. His only chance for contract is to find the outstanding four Hearts split 2-2 and the outstanding six Clubs split no worse than 4-2. Should this be the situation, West can make his contract provided South holds the King of Hearts. So planned, he plays the hand accordingly. West was set one trick.

MOTHER OF 18 DIES IN STABBING; HUSBAND HELD

Woonsocket, R. I. March 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Hannah Gill, 53, stabbed in the neck with a jack-knife Thursday by her husband, Robert, is dead in the hospital here and a grand jury indictment for murder will be sought tomorrow at Providence, police said. The woman was the mother of 18 children, 12 of them living. Gill had at one time been examined as to his sanity.

LITA GOING BACK TO SCREEN

Says She Will Have to Work for Children Because Charlie Gives No Support

Los Angeles, March 16 (A.P.).—Foiled by her wealthy screen star husband in her recent fight to collect $4,000 a month temporary alimony, Lita Gray Chaplin turned toward the mercury lights of Hollywood again today for her livelihood.

Announcing she had been starved into going back to work, the wife of Charles Chaplin, who has been living theoretically penniless in his 40-room mansion at Beverly Hills since her recent failure to extract an income from the comedian's alleged vast but mobile fortune, said she would return to the movies within two weeks.

Mrs. Chaplin said her babies will not be permitted to appear on the screen. Vaudeville offers were rejected for the reason that a stage tour would take her away from her children.

WILL CONTINUE FIGHT.

The film comedian's young wife stressed the fact that her return to pictures is not a signal of surrender in her fight for a share of Chaplin's fortune and provisions for the support of her children. She announced her determination to "get what is coming to me and have," if it takes her "five to twenty-five years to get it for them."

"Mr. Chaplin can't starve me out, though that seems his obvious intention," Mrs. Chaplin declared. "If he refuses to make any sort of provision for the support and maintenance of the two babies, as he has done so far, then I can do only one thing and that is to return to work.

IMPEACHES CHARLIE.

"He has shown that I can't depend on him to do anything except what he is forced to do. He has shown not the slightest sign of interest in the welfare of the two babies he declares to care for so overwhelmingly.

"He doesn't know whether they are starving or not, and apparently he absolutely does not care a jot, since he has failed to advance anything at all directly to maintain them or even provide them with food."

CROWDS HELD UP IN SUBWAY

Thousands of subway passengers were held up during the rush hour this morning as the result of a north bound train missing a switch, just north of the Boylston street station.

While this delay was rectified in two minutes, the second following train was tied up with some trouble with the brakes, causing another two-minute tieup.

Coming at the rush hour, the delay caused trains to back up through the entire subway system on Boylston street. Hundreds of passengers, fearful their could not get to their places of employment on time, left their trains at Massachusetts station, using taxicabs to complete their journey.

RADIO DIALOG

by C. WILLIAM RADIO

IF SAINT PATRICK had a radio dead cat in the transmitter and so set he will certainly know that the quality of transmission was terthis is his week. For starting last rible. Terrible is the word properly Sunday night we have been bealoged describing the broadcast. After a with songs, and ballads, and tunes, while things cleared up and maybe and selections, and numbers, and the cat was buried. We hope so. pieces, and offerings all to the memory of the good old patron of Ireland.

If we had by any chance forgotten that March 17 was coming we have been duely reminded. But more will come for the climax is not yet.

In these days of commercial selfishness it is not often that anyone is seven such tremendous publicity over the radio. Possibly some of the program directors wish to have the power-that-be smile kindly on them. For some of the newer stations have sinned long and continually.

* * *

They have usurped wavelengths, thus ruining good reception from better stations. They have offered the most mediocre of programs in efforts to keep on the air.

They need all the help that a Saint can give them.

The National Light Opera Broadcasting Company will radiate an Irish opera tonight when it presents the "Lily of Killarney." To those who have not caught this broadcast something of interest may be found.

Unlike the Rund Opera Hour, this group presents a tabloid version of a complete opera each Wednesday evening at 1030. WEAF, WRC, WCAE, WGY and WLIT are the stations from which this can be picked up. Usually one or more of these stations is coming in strongly.

* * *

If we ever printed what we thought of some parts of last night we might be an applicant for those everoady calls, always wet and dry and guaranteed to last a lifetime.

For more than one program was poog. We tuned in to one station transmitting a violin squeak. This turned out later to be somebody's idea of a good selection to offer several thousand people.

Some musicians are good on the avoirdupois scales even if they are are not so good on the musical scales. But this player (?) was not even good on the scale of living.

Luckily for our feelings the air did hold some good attractions via the Reversady programs, the Vikings, and odds and ends from out of town. Most of the "odds and ends" were "ends," as we always were late.

One of the local stations had a down and chase the players around the ice. We also became affected with his rapid-fire talk and gripped our chair, waved our hockey hat and became real enthusiastic. It was a good description.

* * *

WGY, WEAF, WJZ, KDKA sounded strong on our cone speaker. We did not find many stations below 200 metres, however.

Tomorrow evening at 7:45 we will have our first chance to obtain authoritative, first-hand information about the plans of the newly-met radio commission. Acting Chairman Eugene O. Sykes will speak from WRC, Washington, via WEEI.

Healthy, vigorous men land life's best prizes. Buoyant step, bright eyes, clear complexion and exuberant vitality denote a system free from impurities. Constipation poisons the whole system, slows the step, saps energy, destroys confidence and cuts down the earning power.

Rid your system of constipation and its poisons. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets remove them gently, tone up the system, clear the eyes and complexion and bring back normal vigor. A compound of vegetable ingredients, prescribed to patients for 50 years in place of calomel. They act easily and quickly on bowels and liver.

Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets and keep fit for the daily grind. Thousands of happy men and women use them regularly as a tried aid to success in their everyday tasks. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

WINE GENTIN

Is useful when there is a want of tone, as indicated by a general feeling of weakness, an incapacity for exertion, impaired appetite, and dyspeptic symptoms. In fact, when people are over-worked, bothered, and feel regularly out of sorts, they cannot do better medicinally than take WINE GENTIN.

Then, again, WINE GENTIN is useful for people who have been pulled down by a long painful illness, who have been knocked "clean off their legs" and "can't pick up again."

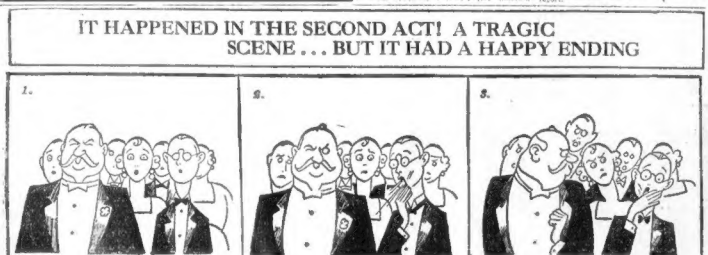
IT HAPPENED IN THE SECOND ACT! A TRAGIC SCENE . . . BUT IT HAD A HAPPY ENDING



1. It was the "big moment" in the play. The suspense was terrific. "At last, my proud beauty, I have you in my power" . . . the villain snarled. "I am going to . . ."

2. Just then Clarence started to cough. Great Guns! How he coughed. He couldn't stop; his throat tickled so.

3. "Put him out" . . . someone yelled. If looks could kill, Clarence would have been murdered by fifty people around him.

4. The curses of the villain were drowned by the "cussing" of Clarence. But what could the poor fellow do! When a man's throat tickles . . . he's gotta cough!

5. The next morning Clarence switched to OLD GOLD Cigarettes. "No more sandpaper smokes for me," he said. "From now on, I'll smoke the blend that soothes the throat while it thrills the taste."

SALEM GOLF CLUB OPENS MARCH 26

By STED CHANDLER.

[illegible] March 26 a week from Saturday the Salem Country Club will officially opened for the 1927 season. As the course, however, will be officially all of the local clubs, the formal opening will postdate considerably the actual beginning of [illegible]

The nine holes at Salem remain [illegible] same as last year, and are in excellent [illegible]. A large squad of men [illegible] at work for the past month and [illegible] the course will [illegible] as sparkling as it has ever been.

There is no [illegible] left anywhere and the fairways have dried out remarkably well. Jack Campbell reports [illegible] greens [illegible] special yesterday are fine, and [illegible] regular greens and tees will be in readiness for the opening day or [illegible]

Campbell has been [illegible] past a week now filled [illegible] course for his teaching, and will probably start giving lessons out doors on Monday.

Probably the only tournaments to be held at Salem this Summer will be the regular annual club affairs, the medal, semi-, Scotch four ball and [illegible] championship. Although [illegible] a good chance that there will be an additional open amateur tourney winged some time late in the season.

There has been talk for some time of holding a professional tournament but [illegible] has met opposition from [illegible] club, and although [illegible] might choose that [illegible] may go through also, it is only a very [illegible] chance. Campbell [illegible] to promise something of the sort may be arranged.

The club championship this year promises to be a close battle between a half dozen of Salem's best golfers. Ed Pearl is the defending champion and is called by Campbell "the best left-handed amateur I have ever met."

Last Summer he won the finals from Alfred Bailey, who [illegible] open tournament in the 1927 event. Hornsby Inspires Men Hogan Real Slugger
Rogers Running Giants Mac Tames Grimes
Burleigh Should Go Big

HORNSBY HAS ABILITY TO INSPIRE MATES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 16.—Rogers Hornsby, fired as manager of the St. Louis Cards after he had steered them to a pennant, is not without ability to inspire. It was the power of Rogers' personality and his inspiration that helped the Cardinals to some fame, so to say.

Now Hornsby

Owner Sam Breadon admitted that he liked the results the Hornsby inspiration, but he thought that the way his manager spent his money was not so good. So he canned the star, and thereby tossed baseball one of the greatest shocks of all history.

John McGraw, a smart fellow, saw all this inspiration lying around loose so he signed it at once. John figures that perhaps the years have taken the edge off his own inspirational abilities. He saw what Hornsby could accomplish with a team that didn't look as good as two or three others in the league. He grabbed Rogers.

Enter Mr. Hornsby. Grant captain and running the team. He picks the lineups, hands out the regulars gives advice to the pitchers and oversees the work of the rookies. To all intents and purposes, he's still a manager.

Mr. Hornsby has business interests in Sarasota and likes to duck away from baseball now and then. With Hornsby on his club he can do that with a free and easy mind. Rogers is burning up to make good this year. He hasn't trained as hard since he was a rookie himself.

He has been working as desperately this Spring to get the Giants going as he did to keep his Cardinals together when the nervous strain of the last pennant chase had them wobbly and groggy.

The Giants, mostly because they have the former Cardinal [illegible] their ranks, are one of the best bets in the National League right now. The club can hit and hit and hit. Every regular is a normal .300 swatter. Some of the boys are not too smart, but two base hits a day make up for a lot of bone plays. Ask the other pitchers, they know.

HOGAN HAS THE EYE OF A REAL SLUGGER

ONE instance of observing the physical attributes of ball players would indicate that Frank Hogan was destined to be a great slugger. His wrists, forearms and shoulders especially keen eyesight. And the wrists of them have optics that are invariably the outstanding facial characteristic.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

AUTOMOTIVE records show that seventy per cent. of the American people pay for their motor cars on time. The other thirty per cent get behind in the installments.

CASH is a good plan, but most people prefer to own their automobiles gradually.

THIS first twelve months are the hardest.

ONE fellow says he always buys a fast car so that he can catch up with the payments.

HE likes to keep two or three miles ahead of the finance company.

A SPEED cop caught him doing seventy-five miles an hour the other day. He said he had just given the dealer a check and was racing it to the bank.

THE officer hawled him out because he had just missed a pedestrian. The motorist promised to get him on the way back.

ONE woman sued a man for breach of promise because he failed to get her a Rolls Royce. He settled the case out of court for nineteen Fords.

SHE didn't know what to do, she was up to her neck in fivvers.

AN aviator flew past her house the other morning and thought he was over Detroit.

THERE'S a man in Chicago who only puts one quart of gas at a time in his Ford. He says he's trying to wean it.

HE has twenty-seven different attachments on his automobile, and the sheriff is adding another one next week.

TWO more mortgages and he wouldn't be able to jack the car up.

HIS wife drives in the back seat but the installments have to be made from the front.

ONE fellow says he always buys a small car because when the finance company takes it away from him he doesn't joke so much.

HE usually purchases two automobiles. One of the family and the other one for the mortgages.

DRIVING is getting easier all the time, the only thing about a sedan that's hard to handle nowadays is the down payments.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A MARRIED WOMAN---BY HELEN ROWLAND

THIS is the time of year when every fond wife is inspired to give her husband a Spring tonic to "pep him up."

But a little Spring tonic is a dangerous thing! You never know WHAT it may lead to!

A Spring tonic may make a good husband feel "wicked" and a wild husband altogether unmanagable. It puts pep in his step, response in his eyes, new alibis in his mouth, and boutonnieres in his button-hole! It acts on him like catnip on a cat, and makes him positively playful!

It often tempts him to make an April fool of himself, and to shed his scruples, his dignity, and his Winter overcoat with youthful insouciance.

A good strong Spring tonic may give a staid, harness-broken husband the courage to telephone his wife that he "won't be home to dinner"; and sustain him in the determination to fight for the right to spend his Saturday nights where he chooses!

It may set him up so that he is inspired to buy himself a gay checked suit, a snappy pearl-colored hat, a bright red necktie and a pair of blonde spats.

And this dazzling outfit may lead him to the manicurist for a glittering finish on his finger-nails, and a little flourish as a "gay devil" along the avenue.

A "settled" married man is one whose emotions have all temporarily settled to the bottom of Life's glass. But when his wife pours a Spring tonic into him, it may have such an effervescent effect that he will bubble over into a fountain of renewed youth, sentiment and sex-appeal.

Sometimes the effects of a Spring tonic on a man last all Summer! And it takes a hard cold in the Fall to bring him back to normalcy and the realization that many may love and admire him—but only a Wife will NURSE him!

When a woman gives her husband a Spring tonic, it is, of course, with a view to making him take more interest in his meals, his work and his family.

But the effect it seems to have on him is to make him take more interest in his haberdashery, the parting of his hair, his stenographer, and his wife's approaching vacation in the country.

Oh yes, a little Spring tonic is a dangerous thing! It makes a man forget his bald-spot, his arteries, his wedding-vows and his business appointments, and mistake his twinges of rheumatism for "growing pains."

Many a woman who has piled her husband with a Spring tonic to "give him a fresh start" has had to stay at home all SUMMER to wait for him to RUN DOWN, so that she could trust him to follow the dotted lines again.

The Discovery That Brought Peace of Mind!

Corrects the Chemistry that Make One's Pores Offend

Do you know why thousands of people who never have to take a laxative, do eat a candy cascaret now and then?

They have found that cascara sweetens the whole system—brings an immaculacy of person that means everything. It prevents bodily chemistry from ever making one unconsciously offensive to others. And what a perfect regulator of the bowels!

Salts affect the lining of the bowels. Mineral oils leave a coating that the blood must carry off through the pores. How much better to cascarize the system, and cause the bowels to expel everything by normal muscular contraction! To say nothing of the cleaner, sweeter condition that lasts for days—a wholesome condition that makes the use of deodorants quite unnecessary in January or July! Men and women, whose years have brought on sluggishness, often find that a cascaret only once a week is all the tonic they needed.

Cascara is splendid for children, too, and they love the taste of this candy laxative which every druggstore has for 10c and 25c.

"IT WAS YEARS before I knew the right way to conquer sluggishness. Now, I can do so with the comfortable feeling that I'm removing all taint to perspiration, too. That's the big virtue I see in the candy laxative—

Do you know that only an occasional tiny wafer of calcium will soon have your bowels moving every day, of their own accord? How much better than salts that sicken—and heat the blood!

A Child Doesn't Laugh and Play if Constipated

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish, stomach sour?

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm tender stomach, bowels

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all the constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

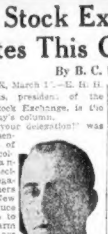
Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

N. Y. Stock Exchange Head Writes This Column Today

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, March 17.—E. H. H. Simmons, President of the New York Stock Exchange, is the writer of today's column.

"Bring on your congestion!" was the closing sentence in one of last week's columns. It announced the decision of a delegation of farmers to visit the New York Produce Exchange to learn how farm products are bought and sold in enormous quantities in the financial metropolis. I ventured to suggest that the stock exchange would be glad to welcome delegations of farmers and others desirous of getting insight into the functions and usefulness of this institution, the greatest of its kind in the world.



PRESIDENT SIMMONS writes:

"My dear Mr. Forbes:

"I read with a great deal of interest and pleasure your column on 'Wall street will welcome delegations of visitors.' You presented the exact facts concerning the attitude of the New York Stock Exchange towards delegations of farmers or any other class who may wish to visit this exchange.

"I need not emphasize what you said, that they will receive a courteous and cordial reception and will be accorded every opportunity to see the exchange and the market in action. We have, as you have well said, a staff trained to answer all questions concerning all phases of this institution's activities, and no courtesy is to be justly possible. I shall be glad to greet these visitors personally and to assure them, for the members and for governing committee of the exchange, of our pleasure in their visit.

"IF IT were possible for the people of the country to visit the exchange and study it at first hand, seek and receive answers to the questions in their mind, and visualize its machinery, a great deal would be accomplished toward the elimination of misunderstanding and misconception of the functions of these great markets, anything which will tend to bring about greater understanding of the financial machinery of the nation, will aid and must inevitably be of benefit to the whole nation.

"Part of the farmer's difficulties lies in the lack of understanding by other classes of his problems, and equally so some of the difficulties in the financial development of the country are found in the fact that the men and methods of the financial district are not known and understood by all the people.

"WE HAVE found that the visitors to the gallery of the New York Stock Exchange get an entirely different viewpoint of the functions of this great market, and it is our duty to see that they are given every possible facility and every information concerning the economic function and the economic necessity of this and similar institutions engaged in providing a market place for the purchase and sale of securities.

"You have presented in your article facts concerning the attitude of the exchange and its officers, and of Wall Street in general, to afford every opportunity to visitors to study and investigate for themselves. The men and women who control these markets are anxious in promoting a better understanding of the financial edifice, and in the accuracy and clarity of your statements and evidence and emphasis your invitation to all and every to visit the exchange with the full assurance that they will be courteously received and their studies and investigations facilitated in every way.

"Very sincerely yours,
"E. H. H. SIMMONS.
"President."

3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.

Yes, Several Things

And One Is HUMAN LIBERTY

IS ANYTHING WORTH THIS? YES.

This cartoon by Mr. Talnurt is published with the question: "Is anything worth this?"

The picture shows a soldiers' cemetery, cannon on the side, Stars and Stripes in the distance. The idea is that, no matter WHAT happens, nothing could be worth the lives that are in this graveyard.

That, however, is NOT so. A man killed uselessly, in a cause not just, is a reproach to civilization and a disgrace to the nation.

But one man or a million men, willingly offering up their lives for liberty, die nobly, and their effort is WORTH what it costs.

HUMAN LIBERTY is worth whatever it costs. And a graveyard, no matter how thickly populated, is WELL filled, if its filling be necessary to protect LIBERTY.

Criticism Is Easy

As the French Say. But PERFORMANCE Is Difficult

Mr. Arthur Woodward sends a clipping from an old newspaper, Brother Jonathan, of May 6, 1843, which quotes the New Orleans Picayune.

It is recommended to the prayerful consideration of those who make up their minds that a thing cannot be done because IT HAS NOT YET BEEN DONE.

Be careful how you laugh at a new idea; you may not have the LAST laugh.

The New Orleans gentleman, quite certain that no flying machine could ever operate successfully, has many companions in the army of doubt.

When iron steamships were suggested, everybody laughed: "Of course they would SINK, and they would have many other defects."

But everybody travels in iron steamships now.

When the locomotive was first used, and railroads threatened to drive out the stage coach, men called "scientists" announced solemnly "the terrific speed of twenty-five miles an hour, if maintained for a great length of time, would be fatal to human life." Think of THAT as you go in your little car at forty miles an hour over rough roads, and by rail at sixty miles an hour.

The following clipping showing what man "wise in his own conceit" had to say about flying on May 6, 1843, may help some people in 1927 not to be too cocksure about their own opinions. KEEP AN OPEN MIND.

From Brother Jonathan of May 6, 1843:

THE FLYING MACHINE AT NEW ORLEANS.

The Picayune has the following:

"We have seen this strange fowl at the theatre, and heard a lecture upon the subject from Mr. Davidson, the inventor. He appears tolerably sanguine that he will be able to soar with his aerial machine; but, we are constrained to believe that he will have to procure larger wings for the now fashioned eagle, and destroy several known laws of nature, before he can ever reach the clouds without the aid of ropes and pulleys."

In considering the probabilities of the flying machine, now attracting so much attention in England, proving successful, no one seems to have suggested the positive certainty, even if the impelling power be found sufficient to overcome the gravitating power, of the whole concern coming down "by the run" some day by reason of some disarrangement of the conflix machinery of the engine. Steam engines are, continually getting out of order, and such an accident happening to the Flying Machine when over the middle of the Atlantic Ocean, would we think prove decidedly embarrassing to the voyagers.

Men distrust, hate and deny any truth that is NEW. If you can stand a few lines really well written, read the following from "The Medea" by Euripides.

Poor Medea, scorned, cast aside by Jason, the beautiful Greek who, with her aid, brought back the Golden Fleece, is telling King Creon, whose daughter Jason is going to marry and put in her place, that she, Medea, is disliked because she knows TOO MUCH.

This play was first produced more than four hundred years before the birth of Christ. It is still read with intense admiration wherever men are civilized.

The wronged Medea is speaking to King Creon:

". . . How can any mind, whose eyes
Are wholesome, seek to rear his children wise
Beyond men's wont? Much helplessness in arts
Of common life, and in their townsmen's hearts
Envy deep-set . . . so much their learning brings!
Come unto fools with knowledge of new things,
They deem it vanity, not knowledge. Aye,
And men that erst for wisdom were held high,
Feel thee a thorn to fret them, privily
Held higher than they."

NOTHING IS EASY BUT SLUMPING

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE place to take hold is Here. Right Here. And the time to begin is Now. Right Now.

If you don't know how to go at it right, go at it wrong, but go at it.

All the worth-while things of this life are difficult. Nothing's easy but slumping.

Most of the problems that affect your happiness are complicated.

And the way to perform a difficult and complicated task is to go to it—somehow.

For you learn by trying.

Life is an Art, not a Science. It is mastered by experiment, and patience, and infinite beginnings again. Nobody in the world can learn just what to do before he does it; I mean in the way of living and getting along.

If you have to see a man and dread the interview because he is an impossible fellow and will make things as hard for you as he can, go right away and get it over with.

If your desk is cluttered with a dozen half-finished matters, clean it up now. Decide. Act.

If you owe money, pay it. If you cannot pay it, make the best arrangement you can with your creditor now. Don't evade and equivocate. Don't dawdle.

If you have a lesson to learn at school and it looks formidable and you don't see how you can possibly master it by tomorrow's class, go at it, learn a little of it now. Get what you can of it, only don't wait for some miracle to happen.

If you have a bad habit that is throttling you, take hold now. You must conquer it sometime, and every day you delay your fight your enemy grows stronger.

If you want to save money and get a little ahead, put a portion of what you have now in the savings bank. Nothing is finished that was never begun.

If you really want to be charitable and help your fellowman, give of what you now possess.

If you are not helpful with a dollar only in your pocket, you would not be if you had a million.

Do it now.

What you are going to do some day may be a sickly dream. It's what you do today that means something.

The only theory that is of any value is the one that gets into your fingers right now.

The only creed that will save your soul is the one that flushes your heart and thought and speech and deed now.

The place to take hold is Here.

CROSSED OCEAN ALONE

When Bank Commissioner ROY A. HOVEY recently added to the list of legal investments for savings banks in Massachusetts bonds of the city of Portsmouth, O., it recalled the fact that Portsmouth, O., was founded by CAPTAIN JOSIAH SHACKFORD of Portsmouth, N. H., who named it after the older city. CAPTAIN SHACKFORD, history tells us, performed the then unprecedented feat of crossing the Atlantic alone in a small boat.

MAYFLOWERS

CAPE COD folks figure that Mayflowers will be plentiful this season because of the large amount of snow and rain that has fallen in that section of Massachusetts during the past Winter. Thousands of motorists in other parts of the State are already planning a "Mayflower Sunday," when the CAPE will be their destination and the delicate pink and white blossoms of this lovely flower their objective.

RESCUED

Many interesting stories are told of the romantic recovery of almost priceless antiques that were reposing in farmhouse attics or barns. After purchasing a big farm in WEST BROOKFIELD, J. S. McLEARN of BRIGHTON discovered a hand carved oak chest of drawers, valued at $600, in which the "hired man" housed his rubber collars and which was destined for use in a henhouse, to hold grain. MR. McLEARN promptly rescued it.

STAFF BARITONE

AIDEN REDMOND, announcer at the BOSTON studio of WBZ, has an interesting way of filling in sudden gaps in a program. If an artist is late, AIDEN steps to the microphone and says, "The next feature, ladies and gentlemen, will be a short group of songs by AIDEN REDMOND, staff baritone of WBZ." Whereupon the staff baritone sits at the piano, plays the accompaniment and gives voice to the ballad chosen for the occasion. Frequently the group ends with the first song, as the scheduled artist arrives breathless in the studio.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

AILEEN has written me a strange letter.

Aileen is a sophomore in college—a bright, healthy, popular American girl—sensitive, with fine ideals and a good disposition. The future should seem a bright and open thoroughfare to a girl like that, shouldn't it? But it doesn't.

"I'm so bewildered, Miss Robinson," she cries. "I have everything I really need in the way of material comfort, and I suppose I always will have. That isn't what bothers me. What I want to know is HOW SHALL I LIVE? When you are in college you hear so much different advice about how to live, and you see so many different experiments being tried out. There are many who believe that the main thing in life is to express and develop one's own emotion. Others say that you should live to succeed —to 'get ahead' either in business or a profession. Others are always going in for 'causes,' waging some sort of campaign or reform. Others live only for art. And others say that Service is the only right ideal.

"I don't think I am abnormal, but there are many sides to my nature and I am sure that, if I set my mind to it, I could pattern my life along any of these lines. But which line is the best? You can't know how many young people in college puzzle over that. People think that college girls and men only think of jazz, or worry about their courses. That isn't so. Even if we've decided on a profession there's still the question — HOW SHALL WE LIVE? To develop ourselves? To serve others? Artistically? Democratically? How? What is your advice?"

Live Gallantly

I can give it to you in two words, Aileen—

LIVE GALLANTLY!

You may not know what life is all about. None of us does. You may be confronted with sorrow and sordidness, wickedness and injustice and cruelty that seem rooted in the very nature of things. You cannot explain this seeming wrong. Don't cry. No one can explain it. If there is no other life, then there is one thing you can do, even when you walk through darkness.

YOU CAN LIVE GALLANTLY!

You can live as though you were on a shining adventure, even though you can't prove it is a shining adventure.

You can live as though honesty and courage, purity and unselfishness, tenderness and patience were supremely worth while — even though they may not always seem worth while.

Even though life must sometimes seem to you a hideous farce you can hold yourself as though you walked through noble drama.

Be a Tall God

Though at times human beings may seem clowns, or cravens, you can act as if you yourself were a poet, a saint, a brave crusader, a high-hearted adventurer — a tall god.

You can't understand life, Aileen —nor escape it—and you can do very little to change it.—BUT YOU CAN LIVE IT GALLANTLY, AS THOUGH TRUTH LAY BEHIND IT AND LOVE WOULD ULTIMATELY TRIUMPH OVER ALL ITS DARKNESS AND DESPAIR.

Yes, I know it's taking a sporting chance.

But, after all, isn't it better to bet on beauty and live in hope of truth than accept some shabby compromise?

"But what if there isn't anything after all?" you cry. "What if there is no other life?"

Even then, you'll have had the best of it, my dear. Whether there is or whether there isn't something better ahead, you'll have profited by the deal.

And I, for one, believe there is something better ahead.

About Waves in Ether

By Garrett P. Serviss, Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

"Comparing a piece of cast iron and a piece of glass, both are heavy and brittle, but one will let light pass through and the other will not. Is it owing to the arrangement of the electrons?—R. L. Doyle.

YES, it is associated with the electrons. Frederick Soddy, famous for his work in radio activity and chemistry, says:

"For any substance to be transparent it must be an insulator. The absorption of the rays is due to their communicating their energy to the electrons in matter, and if these are free from, or only loosely associated with the atoms, the substance will conduct electricity.

"A gold leaf which is so excessively thin that it will transmit green light becomes quite transparent by annealing, and then loses its power of conducting electricity."

This means that to rays which render a substance a conductor that substance is opaque; that is to say it prevents the passage of those rays.

Thus the so-called Schumann and Lyeman rays, which are of very small wave length, in the extreme ultra-violet part of the spectrum make the air conduct electricity, so that it becomes opaque to them, and physicists in order to study those rays must use a vacuum.

Substances that are transparent to some waves are opaque to others. Of course you know that what we call light is regarded as but a small part of a very long series of electromagnetic waves in the "ether."

To measure the length of these waves a unit has to be employed, as in any other measurement, and the unit chosen for this purpose is called "Angstrom," represented by the letter A, whose length is 1/100,000,000th of a centimeter, or, in round numbers, 1/250,000,000th of an inch.

Now there are waves in the ether ranging from less than a thousandth of an Angstrom, (1/250,000,000,000th of an inch) up to a length of many miles. The light waves are all included within a range of from 3,900 to 7,600 Angstroms, i. e. in round numbers, from 1/64,000th to one 33,000th of an inch. The longer of these waves makes the effect called red, and the shorter violet.

Glass is usually transparent to all these. But ordinary glass is opaque to waves of less than about 1/17,000th of an inch and more than 1/8,000th. And air itself becomes opaque to waves as short as 1/147,000th of an inch, because of their ionizing effect upon it.
